

Event title: AHRI conference 'Renewing Rights in Times of Transition'

Location: Edinburgh, Scotland

Date: 7-8 September 2018

Abstract/Description:

ETHOS was represented on 3 separate panels.

Barbara Oomen and Alexandra Timmer presented their research on contested conceptions of justice in Europe between 1941 and 1957 (for ETHOS deliverable 3.2) in a panel on 'The UDHR Yesterday and Today'.

Marie-Pierre Granger, Veronika Apostolovski, Laura Brito and Orsolya Salat presented preliminary research on disability rights (for ETHOS deliverables 3.4-3.6) in a panel on 'The CRPD and Disability Justice in Europe'.

Ulaş Karan presented research on the rights of ethnic and religious minorities in Turkey in a panel on 'Religion and Minorities'.

Audience:

A diverse audience of about 20 legal practitioners, human rights activists and legal scholars in each panel.

Footnote:

The Association of Human Rights Institutes (AHRI), is a network of 62 member institutions that carries out research and educational activities in the field of human rights. The member institutions are from 33 different countries.